Minden to host 1981 National Kayak Championships June 13

The village of Minden and the normally quiet and scenic surrounding area will be the scene of a great deal of excitement and activity in mid-June this year as the canoe and kayak enthusiasts arrive in great numbers. The event is the Cnadian Slalom Championships on Saturday, June 13th, followed by the team trials on Sunday for those who will represent Canada in the World Championships. The site is the Minden Wild Water Preserve on the Gull River just north of Minden, and it is reported to be the best facility of its kind in Canada, and possibly in north America by the participants who enjoy traversing its winding treacherous path.

For more than 10 years kayakers have quietly been training and competing at this site, but have been keeping their activities on a very low profile. There was limited parking and they gained access through permission of the Orillia Light and Power Company on whose property they found themselves.

The Nationals being held June 13th and 14th, are worth attending whether you are a kayak enthusiasts or just a casual onlooker. Watching these people fasten themselves into their tiny boats with which they challenge these foaming waters. They begin in the relatively calm water of Horseshoe Lake shoot the damn and land in the midst of tumultuous seas of white water. Form there it's just under a half a mile through a 30 gate slalom course which drops over 30 feet from start to finish. Many contestants will flip over several times on their journey, only to flip back upright again and continue on their way.

If you can't make it to the Nationals you may still catch a glimpse of the same type of excitement almost any other weekend throughout the summer when members are there training and practicing.

EDITORIALLY SPEAKING

An elected Senate may be the answer for Canada

The proposal of royal commissioner Tom Kent for an elected Senate to replace Canada's appointed Upper Chamber certainly merits detailed study.

As the dean of administrative studies at Dalhousie University remarked, it could be the means of helping to overcome some of the regional diversities which have arisen on the national scene.

In the present House of Commons, Prime Minister Trudeau's Liberal government holds practically all the Quebec seats, Ontario is divided, while the Western Provinces are nearly all represented on the Opposition side. In fact, the Liberals do not have an elected member west of Winnipeg.

Under a new system which would guarantee each province representation with so many Senators elected to sit in a joint House, each region (the 10 provinces) would be at least assured a voice on key issues such as the constitutional debate of such importance to all Canadians.

The United States has long had elected Senators, instead of appointed. In the neighbouring country, east state has equal representation in the Senate body while the election of Congressman is based on population.

Since Confederation, Canada has had an appointed Senate which reviews legislation passed by the elected House of Commons. This method has provided experienced members, but the policy of parties in power appointing their own frequently has led to criticism of this body as being made up of party hacks.

If the people were given the opportunity of making the choices by ballot, they would at least have the same chance of voting them out if they did not consider their performance satisfactory.

While there obviously has to be a great deal of serious discussion before details are finalized, the idea of an elected Senate is bound to have appeal from a democratic point-of-view.

Stratford Summer Seminars combine vacation with good theatre

If you enjoy good theatre and congenial companionship with like-minded people, the Summer Seminars in Stratford, Ontario, offered this August by University of Toronto's Scarborough College, may be just the kind of summer vacation you've been looking for.

Each five-day program includes at least five festival plays, a musical concert and other entertainment, discussions with members of the Festival Theatre Company and staff, and academic colloquia with visiting Shakespearean scholars. Seminars begin on Monday, August 17 and Monday, August 24, and end the following Saturday at noon.

The program was initiated two summers ago under the direction of Andrew J.G. Patenall, Professor of English at University of Toronto's Scarborough College. The courses are open to anyone with an interest in the theatre, regardless of background. Last year's contingent included people ranging in age from 18 to 83, from a broad cross-section of occupations and educational levels, and from as far afield as Los Angeles, Victoria, Edmonton and Chicago.

The seminars provide an inside look at Stratford's Festival Theatre, its plays and the people who make them such an international success. As Professor Patenall puts it, nothing can duplicate "talking with the people who are actually doing it all."

Each of the two sessions will be limited to 50 people. The same plays will be seen each week, but speakers will differ. This year's plays include Shakespeare's Coriolanus, Comedy of Errors, The Taming of the Shrew; Moliere's The Misanthrope; Durrenmatt's The Visit; and Sheridan's The Rivals.

An opening meeting on Monday afternoon will be followed by a reception in the lounge of the Avon Theatre. This will provide an opportunity for seminar members to become acquainted and to meet socially members of the Festival Company and the Board of Directors. The group will see a play on each of the following four evenings, along with at least one matinee. Tickets, although paid for separately, will be reserved in block by the College. It's a great chance to get choice seats in advance.

Cost of the seminars, excluding tickets and accommodation, is $85. This includes opening reception, colloquium lunch, all seminar sessions with refreshments, and special tours. The cost of theatre tickets ranges from $100.50 to $120, depending on options chosen.

Accommodation may be booked independently or through Scarborough College at the Stratford Hospital Residence. A single room for the five nights costs $60. This can be extended to seven nights at no additional cost, if seminar participants wish to stay on in Stratford for the weekend.

Most people agree the residence is one of the last great bargains in Stratford. The building is modern, contains single rooms, each with hot and cold running water. Bathrooms and showers are shared among a small number of rooms. There are also games rooms, TV rooms, kitchenettes, and a heated outdoor swimming pool.

Stratford itself offers a great deal beyond the Festival for interested sight seers. The town boasts some of the best craft and specialty shopping anywhere, and top eating places rivalling any in North America. The surrounding villages, originally settled by German immigrants, abound with intriguing inns and cafes.

For more information and registration forms, write to Summer Programs, Scarborough College, 1265 Military Trail, West Hill, Ontario M1C 1A4, Canada, or telephone (416) 284-3292 until April 30 or (416) 284-3379 from May 1.

1000 Lakes Mixed Team loses to Agincourt at Colt 45 Provincials

HAMILTON — The 1981 Carling Colt 45 Open Provincial Championships are now history after more than 450 bowlers from 24 Ontario zones bowled for three team and two singles championships last week in Hamilton.

Coached by Ron Robinson Sr. of Minden and comprised of Marnie and Dorothy Ann Robinson also of Minden, Steve Barton and Audrey Gerris of Fenelon Falls, Wally Everett, Bancroft and Ernie Gerhart and Charlie MacLeish of Lindsay, the team took to the alleys against Agincourt, Ottawa Valley, Windsor, York Simcoe and St. Lawrence Valley on Thursday morning in the first four game block and when finished, they were in first place.

Friday they went at it again against the five teams in their division and came away with a tie with Agincourt with identical records but Agincourt advanced to the match play finals having defeated 1000 Lakes earlier in the day. Both teams ended the ten game series with 16 matches won, four games won for a total of 28 pts. Agincourt went on in match play to defeat Conestoga, Tri County and Hamilton and will now represent Ontario in the National Champions for the World title.

In singles action at the Provincial tournament, Larry Cavanagh, Lindsay and Ken Mills, Fenelon, made the cut of the top 50 percent and ties after the first five games and Cavanagh went on to finish seventh overall out of 144 bowlers, missing the match play finals by just two spots. Mills ended up 31. Ron Robinson Jr of Minden missed the cut.

All three 1000 Lakes ladies singles missed the cut this year, but performed admirally considering the competition, Brenda Card, Bancroft, Flo Henderson, Haliburton and Eva Kirkham, Bancroft. All represented 1000 Lakes for the first time at the tournament.

The men's team finished fourth in their devision with 37½ pts, losing out to Scarborough who amassed a spectacular 61 pts.

The ladies team once again finished last in their group, picking up 21 pts to the winner from Central Ontario who had 54.

On their way to the World Championships to represent the Province are: Men's team, Guelph District Bowler's Association; Ladies team, Central Ontario Bowlers' Association; Mixed team, Agincourt Bowlers Association; Men's Singles, Willie Sorbara, Niagara Peninsula and Ladies Singles, Pamela Rioux St. Lawrence Valley. Congratulations to all and continued good luck.

CARNARVON — For the first time in more than five years a new league champion has been crowned in the men's commercial league here. Led by Ron Robinson Sr., Gord Everal, Garth Henderson, Doug Robinson, Dave Bell and Dan Harding, the Carnarvon team fought off the determined efforts of Modern Electric all year and finally defeated them 454 pts to 431. The B series Consolation playoffs will be contested by Guilford Recreation 411, PL 382 and North Shore Lawn and Garden 353.

In individual competitions Ron Robinsin Jr. for perhaps the tenth year has captured the high average with 242. Runner-up went to Wes Stata edging Bob Robinson by one pt 225-224.

The top single bowled this year to Bob Heppleston, who rolled a 378 on the last night of play. Runner-ups were Gord Everall 367 and Bob Robinson 366

Triple honours go to Bob Heppleston and Neil Jackson who tied with 892. Third place went to Ron Robinson Jr. with 871.
